

Corporate Narrative & Messaging Pillars

Refining Overarching Narrative as Basis for all Comms and Positioning

Mission

We ignite the human spirit through movement / Dream On

Vision

To be the most premium global sportswear brand.

Key Message

On is the leading premium sportswear brand. Driven by our belief in the transformative power of human movement, built on relentless innovation made in Switzerland, and defined by a blend of performance and contemporary design, we create sportswear: For world-class athletes. For a passionate sports community. For the world.

Pillars

Our baseline is Performance.

On mission is to help people unlock their potential through movement. Our products are trusted by the world's best athletes and everyday enthusiasts alike—each drawn to the performance edge we provide through our Swiss-engineered technology that works. For world-class athletes and a passionate sports community.

Innovation is our operating system.

From Day One, On has questioned how things are done to reimagine what they could be. And we're just getting started. We relentlessly innovate across materials, products and experiences to meaningfully improve the way people move. At On, innovation is never an end in itself—it is a .

Design is how we stand apart.

Every design decision at On begins with purpose. Every product, store, and workspace reflects a deliberate, timeless balance of function and form—creating an unmistakably On aesthetic that's always rooted in performance. Premium design is not an afterthought; it's embedded in our DNA.

Scaling our Business with purpose.

Our business is built for sustainable, premium growth, driven by strategic focus and relentless execution. We pursue growth not for its own sake, but to create value and unlock opportunities for our community and brand. As we expand, we remain committed to our premium position and our ambition to set new industry benchmarks.

Our Culture drives our success.

Born in the Swiss Alps and shaped by a global team, our culture is defined by a shared obsession with progress — a deep curiosity for how things can be better, the discipline to care about every detail, and an intense will to get to the finish line together. This culture is our true competitive edge: it inspires our community, attracts world-class talent, and fuels the focused intensity that makes On unmistakably unique.

We act with Sustainability in mind.

We aim to improve every life we touch, from the supply chain to the finish line. Circular systems, recyclability, consciously selected materials, and equitable practices are not sidelines; they are embedded in our core business. We know we can't change the world overnight or on our own, but we are committed to constantly becoming more impactful for both people and the planet.